YOU CHOOSE TO WHISPER

You may, if you choose, walk with me around National Statuary Hall.

It's right here in the Capitol Building. Beside statues of this nation's great, most contributed by the states whose tribute they earned, there is an architectural phenomenon: you can stand at one point in the hall, barely whispering, and be heard in a point opposite more than 100 feet away.

It is as if these men--and women--compel you to speak low, if at all, as you walk amidst the heroic representations of flesh and blood.

For these are the makers of this country--its founders, its builders, its arbiters, its warriors, its thinkers, its doers--contrary to one another, but quite alike in some aspiration or dream which is now larger than many of them, even, saw and lived.

Here is Benjamin Franklin and there Jefferson Davis; over there is Abraham Lincoln and beyond Robert E. Lee; near by William Jennings Bryan and Thomas Hart Benton; a few paces further Sequoyia and Dr. John Gorrie.

Do we forget what men are these: Indian, catholic, aristocrat, missionary, Prairie statesman, soldier, president?

Who from Texas, but Sam Houston and Stephen F. Austin, standing as younger men, in buckskin, one a fighter, the other a quiet builder of empire born in thunder and conflict?

Poles apart, these men may show the timber Statuary Hall spans, the foisted greatness that dares or stands or reaches.

These among the other giants, unprovincial in comparison among the near hundred standing here:

Of Houston, a peerless ego and dynamic fighter, the dedication says (in part):

"The closing act of Houston's official life was in strict keeping with the character of the man. Being required to take the oath of allegiance to the new Confederacy into which Texas had entered, he could not cast lightly aside the fruits of that Union with the United States for which he had long and successfully labored. He declined to take the oath, resigned his position as Governor of Texas, carrying with him the high admiration, and the profound gratitude of all his fellow-citizens." -- From acceptance proceedings

4290 Countians On Social Security List

Social security benefits were being paid to 4,290 residents of Milam County at the rate of $375,000 every month, or a total of $4,500,000 a year, as of January 1, 1972. This information was released today by Jack Calvert, social security district manager in Temple.

When the recently passed twenty percent increase is added to these benefits for the month of September, due on the October 3 benefit checks, the total will be $450,000 a month, or a yearly total of $5,400,000.

In the six counties of Bell, Coryell, Hamilton, Lampasas, Milam, and San Saba, there are 24,632 persons who get $2,250,000 monthly, or a total yearly amount of $27,000,000.

Of these social security beneficiaries living in Milam County, 2,113 are retired workers and 798 are dependents of retired workers. Another 382 are getting benefits as disabled workers and dependents of disabled workers. There are also 936 persons who are receiving monthly benefits as the survivors of workers who have died.

Most social security beneficiaries are older people, but about one in every four is under the age of 60, Calvert points out. In Milam County, 789 people under age 60 collect social security benefits every month, with 355,662 Texans under age 60 getting benefits every month.

And of Austin, in part:

"Yoakum, who wrote one of the earliest and best histories of Texas pays his memory this beautiful tribute. 'If he who, by conquest, wins an empire and receives the world's applause, how much more is due to those who, by unceasing toil, lay in the wilderness the foundation for an infant colony, and build there on a vigorous and happy State. Surely there is not among men a more honorable destiny than to be the peaceful founder and builder of a new Commonwealth. Such was the destiny of Stephen F. Austin.'"

You walk along the row of statues, divided by colonnades of marble, the figures looking out or down; the umbrella-like ceiling reverberates your footsteps; and each state's hero at one is heroic and human.

Each state, as each nation, has its heroes still, most of which are never caught in alabaster, bronze or marble.

Each has his heroic moment, if but one, giving something to life statuary never quite captures. You sense this as you see the giants among earlier Americans elevated here.

As at the Lincoln Memorial or Jefferson Memorial, you choose to whisper.

Two Charged In Drug Cases

Cameron police arrested two young men over the weekend and charged them with possession of marijuana. Once was a local high school senior.

The incidents brought arrests for possession of marijuana to a total of six in a week for Cameron police and local highway patrolmen.

Tommy Pitts, 18, of Cameron, was charged before Justice of the Peace Jess Brock Friday night and placed under $2000 bond. Pitts was arrested late Friday night as Cameron police were investigating a minor traffic accident at Fourth and Houston streets.

On Saturday night Donnie Robbins, of San Antonio, was arrested at 11:23 p.m. at 12th and Houston by police officers, Wayne Brinkley and Bob Pilkey. He was also charged in Brock's Justice court for possession of marijuana and bond was set at $2000.

There are 426 social security beneficiaries in Milam County that are under age 18, while there are 201,773 under age 18 in Texas who get benefits every month. Most of the 78 beneficiaries in Milam County and the 35,349 in Texas between 18 and 22 years of age are getting student's benefits under the provision in the social security law which permits payments to full-time, unmarried students of retired, disabled, or deceased parents.

The total number of social security beneficiaries in Milam County represent 21.4 percent of the total population. In the six-county area served by the Temple social security district office, the 24,632 people who get benefits every month represent slightly over twelve percent of the total population.

Yoemen, Ducks To Clash Friday

By Marilyn Hauk

Yoemen football fans will get their chance to see the results of summer practice and the new coaching staff when Yoe battles the Taylor Ducks here 8 p.m. Friday.

The match will be a tough one, for Taylor will be one of the strongest teams Yoe will face all season. In previous scrimmages, the Yoemen have had larger teams to face.

Friday night they will be up against not only a larger team but a quicker one.

Taylor's starting offensive team will average 195 pounds, with the offensive line averaging 202 pounds.

"Looking at these statistics one might feel that we don't even belong on the same field with this team. However, I feel we are quicker. And if your pass protection will hold up, I think we can neutralize the difference in size," reported Coach Caulley.

Two players who were injured in the Mexia scrimmage are responding to treatment and should be ready for Friday's game.

For the Yoemen to succeed Friday night it will be necessary for them to play a ball possession game on offense and keep the Ducks from having the ball in good field position.

Alcoa Scholarships Open To Students

Sons and daughters of Alcoas throughout Central Texas have begun applying for the two $4,000, four-year Alcoa Foundation college scholarships awarded annually at Aluminum Company of America's Rockdale Works.

Fred P. Bergeron, plant manager, said that 26 scholarships have been given to dependents of local employees since the corporate-wide program began in 1953.

He said applications for this year's scholarships are available at the plant through departmental supervisors. Candidates must fill out applications and give them to their high school principals no later than Friday, September 15.

Applicants must be in the upper half of their senior class or have at least a C-plus average, Bergeron said. The award program includes step-children of Alcoas if they reside in the employee's household.

2300 Motorists Pause At REACT Holiday Rest Stop

Some 2300 Labor Day holiday motorists stopped for a coffee and Coke break at the REACT rest stop south of Cameron this weekend, as REACT members again provided refreshments for road-weary travelers.

The stop opened at 6 p.m. Friday and closed at midnight Monday, serving some 1200 cups of coffee, over 1000 Cokes and "thousands of cookies."

The late afternoon and evening hours Monday were the busiest, with workers having to replenish supplies time and again. The beverages and cookies were donated in part by Milam County businesses, and the club's rest stop fund also provided supplies.

Accident Injures Three

Three persons were injured in a three-vehicle accident Saturday night on Highway 36 near the Burleson County line. All were reported in fair condition in a Temple hospital.

The series of mishaps began with the jackknifing of a cattle truck about 10:50 p.m. The truck, driven by Emmett Harris of Sealy, blocked both lanes of traffic on the highway.

A 1969 Mercury driven by Dan J. Bradley of Cameron struck the truck after it jackknifed. Bradley was injured in the collision. About 30 minutes later the Bradley car was struck by a 1971 Chevrolet driven by Edward McSwain of Bryan.

Bradley, Mrs. Mary Marie Martin of Denver, Colo. and 2-year-old Brent Martin were taken to Scott and White Hospital in Temple. The Martins were passengers in Bradley's car.

McSwain received minor injuries but his wife, riding in the car with him, was not injured.

Minor damage was reported to the truck and heavy damage was reported to the two cars.

Highway patrolmen Larry Hester and Jerry Randall of Rockdale investigated that accident and several others in the county causing property damage but no injuries.

An accident was reported on the Silver City road about 6:15 p.m. Friday when a car driven by Otis Ray Phillips of Cameron went out of control and slid through a fence. He was not injured.

Lone Star Gas Lowers Request For Rate Increase

Lone Star Gas Co. offered the city an alternate proposal of an increase of 7.99 percent in gas rates instead of the 9.63 percent requested first in April.

The offer came at the city council's regular meeting Tuesday evening.

B. L. Edwards, Lone Star Gas manager, said this was the lowest the company would go. He said the company is seeking an 8 percent return on its investment, which it is not receiving now in Cameron.

Mayor Gene Blake told Edwards that the Federal Price Commission had mailed information to him setting out criteria for public utility's raising rates, and told him the city wanted a certificate of compliance from the Price Commission before granting any rate increase.

Edwards agreed to draw up an amended ordinance for submission to the Price Commission. Blake said the council would then be in a better position to handle the request.

In other business at the short meeting, councilmen approved paying dues to the Central Texas Economic Development District; discussed getting an exterminator for the caretaker's house at Wilson Ledbetter Park, and discussed progress of base work on streets for paving.

School Buildings Modeled...

School patrons may see what is proposed in the October election in the $1.23 million bond program for Cameron Independent School District.

Buildings will be improved, inside or out, to that financial tune. This is a good opportunity to see what you are being asked to consider.

The models are on display or will be on display at Cameron banks and Cameron Public Library.

It is the first bond proposal in about 17 years. It is only the second construction proposal since the Cameron schools became public schools. And that goes back a long way.

Interestingly enough, the Yoe Building is the last building to be torn down in the Mall Block in mid-town Cameron. And the Yoe family in 1920 donated most of the grounds and the Yoe High School building to Cameron for what, at the time, was a modern high school.

Cameron and its surrounding district have been spoiled, in a sense, by the fact, that good management and such gifts as a high school and grounds have kept bonding programs to a minimum.

But no other gifts, save a residence given a few years ago for use by CISD, have gone to the CISD system.

Some construction was accomplished by public works efforts during the 1930s, but those buildings are far from adequate. Yoe High School has been modernized outside and modified inside for utility.

But Ada Henderson had a problem of collapsing interior ceilings, the Yoe Gym is woefully inadequate for physical education and athletics. Modern facilities are needed throughout the system.

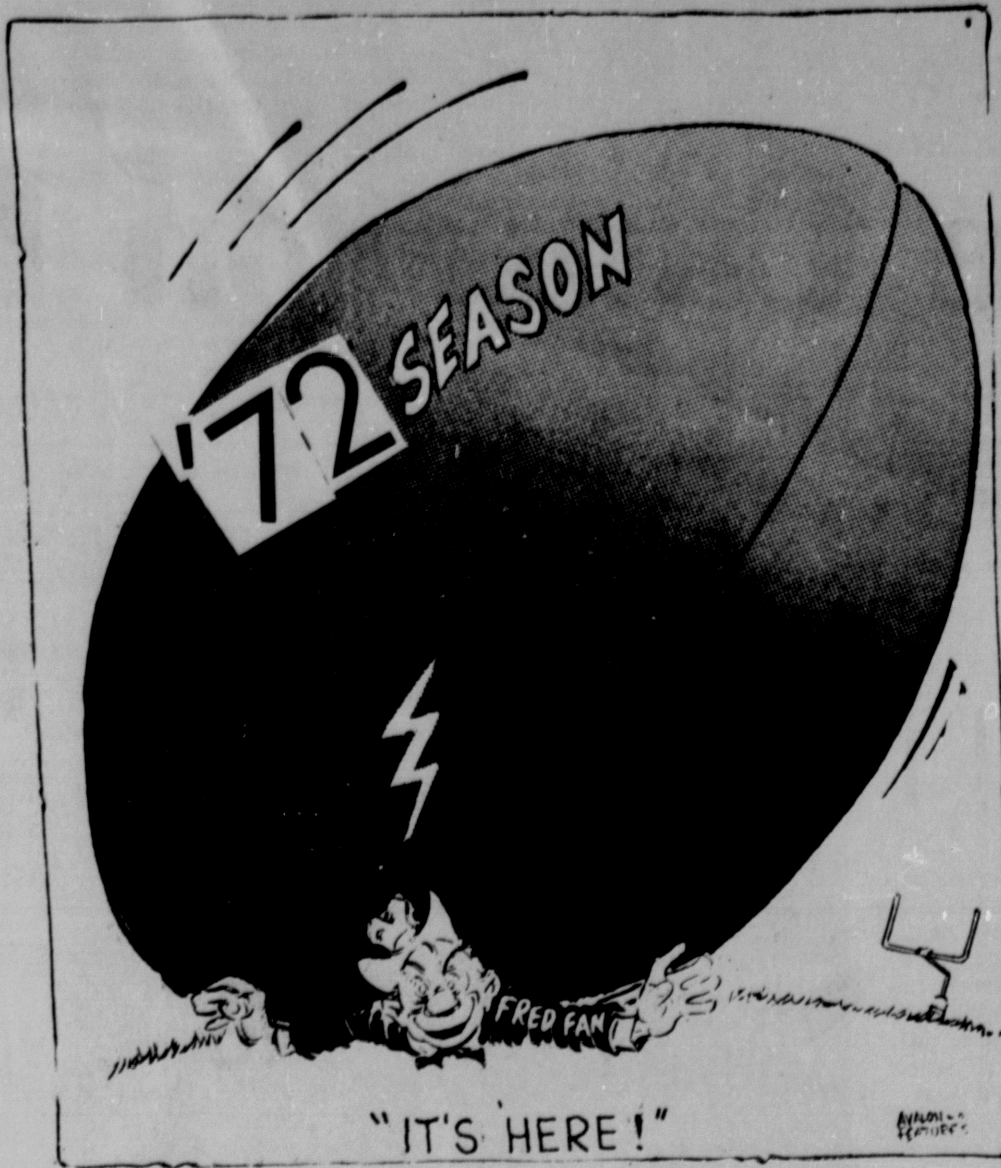

This bond proposal is a start. One board member recently said consideration was given to a new auditorium, but held in abeyance because it is considered a luxury costing another $400,000 to $600,000. We don't agree that a good high school auditorium is a luxury, in view of the fact that Temple, Rockdale and Cameron are working, for example, on return of the Dallas Symphony Orchestra in January, 1973.

But the first things outlined in the scale models are important too. We support this program, anticipating that an auditorium will not be far behind these proposals.

Viewing these models will give school patrons a preview of what is coming up. They already know of the need.

School officials are trying to bring forth a comprehensive program to modernize the whole Yoe Campus, to give it some cohesion. Additional land for parking, new construction has been purchased. Old houses can be moved off, those now being used on temporary basis.

The important thing is that we get on with this program and eliminate piece-meal approach to public education in AAA school system in Cameron, Texas.

GALLERY SIGNALS AID EAGER LADY LOBBYIST

SENATOR HUBERT H. HUMPHREY (Minn)... I invite the attention of Senators to an article published recently in ROLL CALL describing the diligent and effective work of Dorothy Ellsworth, one of the few female legislative representatives working in Washington. I ask unanimous consent that the article entitled "Lady Lobbyist Rates Tops" be printed in the Record." (Condensed article follows).

The existence of Dorothy A. Ellsworth, the soft-spoken, non-smoking, non-drinking, legislative representative for the Brotherhood of Railway, Airline and Steamship Clerks proves that such an opposite can and does exist.

Dorothy Ellsworth is used to being in the minority. There are 1,471 registered lobbyists who flock to Capitol Hill each day, but only 28 of them are women.

She arrives at work as early as 7:00 AM to have time to get through her mail, do reports on bills and activities and organize a book she keeps on everything she does. She has coffee and outlines an agenda for the day.

Lunch is always business. You can find her at the Democratic Club or the Republican Capitol Hill Club and even at the Longworth Cafeteria.

Dorothy estimates that she can recognize 350 of the 435 Congressional members and just about every Senator. But, the important thing is, do they know you?

They do. Chuckling, Dorothy tells how she has sat in the galleries and had members motion her for a thumbs up or down gesture when voting is occurring on the floor.

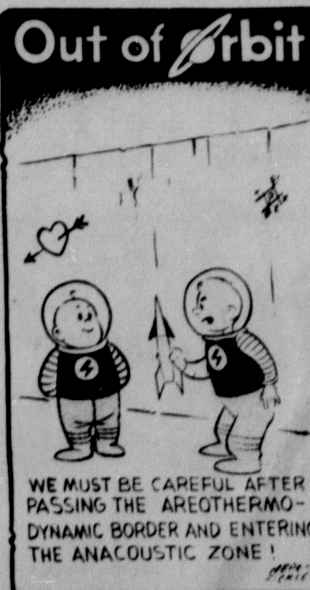

When she enters a members office, she is ready for any and all questions. "I do my homework." She has a file on every member which is filled with clippings from the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD and voting needs.

When the going is rough, Dorothy is inevitably in the middle. On one important Committee vote that was expected to be 15-15, it was her job to talk a member into not attending the Committee session.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

Since it apparently is impossible to keep people from throwing cans and bottles out of their cars, science has just about come up with a solution, according to an item I read in a newspaper somebody threw out of his car near this place yesterday.

A scientist claims he has invented a plastic container which can be scheduled to self-destruct. Exposed to sunlight, it melts into nothingness, but the time of its melting can be regulated over days or months by changing the formula, so you won't suddenly find yourself on a picnic holding nothing but a handful of sodawater.

But beyond solving the litter problem, this idea has far more practical uses.

For example, all television and radio tapes of political speeches should be made of this self-destructing material. Say a man is running for Justice of the Peace on a platform of increased trade with China. It's embarrassing to have his opponent play a recording of his denunciation of all dealings with China when he ran the time before.

Or a judge comes out on the steps of the courthouse and in the glare of television lights says he's for a thousand dollars for everybody, and three months later says he's not.

Some smart alec for the networks is always going back and digging out these tapes and playing them side by side, and if Congress is on its toes it'll pass a law immediately requiring all such tapes to be made of material that'll melt away. The right formula for the time schedule on this will have to be worked out. Some say a politician shouldn't be held responsible for what he said a year ago, some say three months would be a more realistic figure.

By the way, come to think of it, this new material, if it works, would certainly be ideal for notes you sign at the bank. And there may even be editors who wish some of their last-year's opinions would melt away when exposed to sunlight.

Yours Faithfully,
J.A.

Walking Through Glass

Leaving her dentist's office, Martha headed for the lobby of the building. But as she reached the exit, she mistook a glass panel for the door and pushed right through it.

Cut and bruised, Martha decided to seek damages from the owner of the building.

"The door is glass and so is the panel," she complained in a court hearing. "It is all very confusing."

But the building owner saw no good reason for her confusion. He pointed out that the door had a metal frame, a hydraulic mechanism, and a handle—all plainly visible. Result: Martha's claim was turned down. As one judge put it:

"The injury was due to her own lack of care. She was the author of her own misfortune."

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor
Dear Sir:

I resent the article in the Herald on the editorial page about where you said the evidence showed that the Maysfield voters didn't know or didn't care what happened to them. I think the evidence showed the very opposite from what you said it did. That it showed that we do know what we are doing and care what we are doing by the overwhelming two to one vote we had, against letting Cameron take our school away from us. And that you exposed your ignorance by making such a statement. So you had better brush up on your knowledge a little bit, before circulating us on our lack of knowledge.

We all know why the Cameron School officials wanted to take our school. It wasn't because they loved us or our school. It was for one reason and for one reason only, and that reason was so they would get the money allotted to us from the State of Texas so they could handle and dispose of it as they saw fit.

We don't know too much out here but we do have sense enough to vote so as to keep Cameron from taking our school away from us.

I know from observation that the bigger anything gets the more rotten it becomes. And that includes business, government, schools and the merging of so many churches together.

My daddy taught here in the ninety's. He was a preacher but had to teach school to make a living. My brother taught here in the teens. We have had lots of good teachers here including the Honorable E. A. Camp, Senior, Miss Lillian Atkinson, Mr. J. O. Hughes, Mr. Roy Hensley and lots of others. They taught good morals as well as education. I know that we do not have as good a school here as we once had but neither does Cameron have as good a school as they use to have.

I think the editor owes us an apology for what he has said.

Taxes would have gone up 3 or 4 times higher.

Roy S. Newton

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES

Destroy Stalks To Reduce Weevils

By Bill McCutchen

The cotton harvest has been progressing well, but harvesting by no means completes the farmers job. There's still a big job ahead if farmers want to grow cotton again next year and that job is destroying cotton stalks to reduce the food supply of overwinter boll weevils.

Boll weevils were severe in Milam County this year and it is therefore critical that producers shred and destroy stalks as soon as possible after harvesting so that fewer weevils will be able to feed and build up a fat supply for overwintering.

Successful diapause control programs should reduce the probability of a similar severe weevil problem next year.

I would encourage producers who are still awaiting harvest to include an insecticide in their defoliant or dessicant to reduce the number of weevils entering diapause. Needless to say, harvesting as soon as possible is another way to gain an advantage on these pests.

Once stalks are shredded, the debris should be plowed under to a depth of at least 6 inches. Destroying cotton stalks and plowing them under is a key means of cotton pest management

WINTER PASTURES

To get the most use from winter pastures, it's best to plant them early. Winter pastures can get off to a head start if planted early and can take advantage of fall rainfall and other favorable growing conditions during August, September, and October.

Winter pastures make better progress while days are still fairly long and more sunlight is available. As the fall season progresses, more cloudy weather develops and sunlight is less intense.

Don't wait until armyworms danger has passed. You will have missed most of the growing season.

Swine Waste Control

Many Texas swine producers are faced with making changes in their operations to comply with regulations set down by the Texas Water Quality Board.

The whole idea of the Board's regulations is that "treated or untreated wastes may not be discharged to water courses except under rare rainfall events."

Two agricultural engineers with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service have taken a close look at the overall situation of swine waste management and have developed a report to assist swine producers with the problem. "Liquid Manure Management for Swine" was authored by Dr. Billy R. Stewart, environmental control specialist, and Dr. John M. Sweeten, animal waste management specialist.

The Texas A&M University specialists point out that producers meeting certain criteria must register with the Texas Water Quality Board. Registration is based on the number of hogs in confinement, minimum stocking rates, duration of confinement, daily period of confinement, pollution potential and purpose of holding and feeding areas.

Registered producers must comply with several minimum standards for preventing water pollution from confined feeding operations.

"Proper design of swine waste management systems can yield benefits of pollution control, increased animal productivity and improved production efficiency," say the specialists. "In planning new or modified swine production units to meet environmental pollution standards, producers should attempt to incorporate all these benefits."

COTTON YIELDS DECLINING — Cotton yields have been declining just when cotton is showing a resurgence in the market. This has prompted a Beltwide campaign, spearheaded by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, National Cotton Council, and State Extension services, to obtain "Better Yields of Quality Cotton for Profit and Market Growth." Crops have been below normal for four out of the past five seasons. Across the Cotton Belt, yield per acre averaged 438 pounds in 1961. It rose to a record 527 pounds in 1965 but by 1971 was back down to 438 pounds, the same as 1961.

4-H Notes

By Rodney B. Kruse

Just answer these questions. Do you want to join a world wide, national, youth program where you can discover new ideas and skills and take part in group activities? Are you between the age of 9 and 19, do you live in Milam County? If you answered these three questions, yes, maybe you should join the 4-H club.

4-H is a youth program with members in urban, suburban and rural areas. About 76 countries now have some type of 4-H programs with 4-H world membership over 5,000,000. For the 4-H program in this county, there are ten 4-H clubs located at Branchville, Cameron, Minerva, Rockdale, Davilla, Gause, Griffin Chapel, Maysfield and Thorndale.

4-H offers a variety of projects that can interest younger or older youth. Some of these projects available are electricity, clothing, photography, beef, dog care, rabbits, automotive, home management, and many more.

Many activities and events are conducted every year that are participated in by Milam 4-H members such as county and district camps, county, district and state dress reviews, food shows, livestock shows, and leadership laboratories. Through competition, 4-H'ers can win prizes, money and scholarships.

Volunteer leaders help every 4-H club. If you have an interest in young people, like young people, are willing to learn from experience and want to share your skills, talents and hobbies, maybe you should investigate being an adult leader.

4-H club work is for all the youth of Milam County. Remember that saying, "Try it you'll like it!"

SAVINGS BONDS

Henry Siebman, Chairman of the Milam County Savings Bonds Committee, reported today that sales of Series E and H United States Savings Bonds in Milam County totaled $62,989 during July. Sales for the first seven months were $441,874 for 62 percent of the 1972 goal.

U.S. homeowners are spending about $20 billion this year on modernization, mostly for room additions, kitchen and bathroom remodeling and paneling.

Peanut Field Day Set At Stephenville

STEPHENVILLE

The 1972 Peanut Field Day is scheduled Sept 14 here at the Texas A&M University-Tarleton Experiment Station.

Guests will tour, from 1 until 5 p.m., plots where longtime research is being conducted in diseases, insects, varieties, seed quality and harvesting for quality. Discussions are scheduled along the route of the tour

A meal, Dutch-treat, will be catered at the station, 2 miles north of Stephenville, on Hwy. 281, beginning at 11:30 a.m.

Throughout the afternoon, at various educational information booths, specialists will act as consultants concerning herbicides, diseases, nematodes, insects, fertilizers, irrigation, economics, and activities of the Texas Peanut Producers Board.

Numerous implements and machines for the production of peanuts will be on display.

Rural Areas Showing New Growth

WASHINGTON

The move from farm to city may be coming to a halt, a new era of economic and social growth for rural America may already be launched.

These are two conclusions to be drawn from various reports on the progress of rural America, from the arid stretches of the Southwest to the green fields of the Southeast. They also are indications that the much talked about goals of rural development are beginning to emerge as realized accomplishments for an increasing number of communities.

Some signs of the recharged energies within rural areas are:

--More jobs: During the 1960's nonfarm jobs increased by 39 percent in the countryside, a slightly better rate than the 34 percent increase in metropolitan areas. This growth rate has been high in completely rural counties as well as in those with cities of up to 50,000 population.

--Farm - exodus ending: The farm population has dropped to fewer than 9 1/2 million persons. With so few people remaining on the Nation's farms, little further decline in the population is possible. As the farm-to-city migration dwindles to a negligible level, continued gains in nonagricultural jobs will have a more visible impact on the overall economy and population of rural areas.

--Greater Federal commitment to rural areas: The government is stepping up its investment in rural America manifold. For example, funds earmarked for housing in rural areas amount to $2.2 billion this year, four times the 1969 level; sewer and water programs are allocated $342 million this year, nearly twice the 1969 level. Total funds devoted to rural development efforts by the Department of Agriculture will amount to $3.5 billion this year -- four times the level in 1961 and twice as much as in 1969.

SBA To Assist Veterans

Vietnam era veterans can now get special assistance from the Small Business Administration on three areas of financial help as a result of a new program announced by the SBA on August 1, Jack Coker, VA Regional Office Director, said today.

The new assistance which will make it easier for veterans to start and maintain businesses is in response to President Nixon's recent call for renewed commitment by all federal agencies to help Vietnam era veterans.

Coker said the World War II and Korean Conflict GI Bills included provisions for veteran business loans but the Vietnam era GI Bill does not. The SBA program will ease the way for veterans to go into business for themselves by making them eligible for SBA business loans, federal government contracts and management assistance that had previously only been open to socially or economically disadvantaged persons.

FTC Guide Curbs Paneling Labels

Solid wood won some protection from imitation wood wall paneling under Federal Trade Commission guides which become effective December 15. FTC guides are intended to assure the consumer is informed accurately and adequately on what he is buying, and is not being misled by false or misleading labeling.

"Wood pattern" or "wood-grain finish," says the new guide, may not be used without qualification to describe panels which have been stamped, pressed or rolled to change the natural grain. Strict labeling also applies to veneers.

Beef Factory Increases... Egg Production Shows Gain... Cattle Sold At Auction Declines... Egg-type Chicks Decline... Screwworm Agreement...

THE BEEF FACTORY of Texas--the nation's largest--has increased almost 275,000 head during the first half of the year.

The number of beef cows, which determines the numbers of beef calves to be produced, total 5,725,000 in Texas as of July 1. This compares with 5,452,000 as of January 1.

The number of all cows in Texas has also shown an increase. Total cow numbers in the state as of July 1 totaled 6,080,000 head; this compared with 5,807,000 head as of January 1.

The Blacklands have the highest number of beef cows and all cows. As of July 1, there were 920,400 cows (854,000 of that being beef cows) in the Blacklands. The east Texas and south central Texas regions were next in total numbers of cows and beef cows.

The east and northeast Texas area had 775,000 beef cows and a total of 864,100 cows as of July 1. The south central area had 766,000 beef cows and a total of 810,500 cows as of July 1.

EGG production in Texas during July was up three percent from a year ago, but steady with last month. Total egg production during July totaled 222,000,000. Nationwide, egg production was down one percent from last year.

Total numbers of Texas layers as of July 1 were 11.7 million. Texas eggs laid daily per 100 hens averaged 61.2 during July; a year ago the average was 57.6. Nationwide, the average was 62.7.

The July hatch of egg-type chickens in the state was down 34 percent from a year ago and 23 percent below a month earlier. Broiler chicks showed an increase of three percent. The total turkey poult hatch for July was up 18 percent from a year ago, but 33 percent below a month ago.

A NINE percent decline in numbers of cattle and calves marketed through Texas auction markets inspected by the Texas Animal Health Commission is reported by the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

Cattle and calves marketed totaled 619,000 head, or nine percent below a year ago. Sheep sales totaled 132,000, down 17 percent from a year ago and 39 percent under a month ago. Sales of goats at 27,000 were down 31 percent from a year ago.

Hog sales totaled 45,000 head; this is 29 percent below a year ago.

THE FINAL step toward eradication of the screwworm in Texas has been taken. An agreement between Mexico and the United States was signed recently which will result in a cooperative effort to eradicate the screwworm in Mexico.

It will involve building a sterile screwworm fly factory off the Isthmus of Tehuantepec in Mexico. Production from this plant and from the fly factory at Mission will be used to wipe out the pest in Mexico.

Livestock producers in Texas are urged to continue to check their livestock regularly, treat wounds on livestock for screwworm control, and continue to submit suspected samples to the fly laboratory at Mission.

Eradication officials say plans are being made now to combat the screwworm next year.

SCS News

Increasing water infiltration, holding soil moisture, reducing erosion, and improving the caking ability of the soil have always been problems of farmers. Through the proper management of crop residues these problems can be greatly reduced.

A common example of managing crop residue would be the proper management of grain sorghum residue. Many times during dry years it is grazed heavily or baled thus removing 3000-4000 pounds of residue which could have been returned to the soil.

The maize stubble, which has very little food value for livestock, when removed, leaves the bare fields open for erosion problems. This can be prevented by leaving all residue on or near the soil surface until the next seed bed is prepared.

With nearly 2 tons of residue incorporated in the soil surface the amount of runoff is reduced and water infiltration is increased. The residue has reduced the rain drop impact by slowing the rain drop down thus preventing the breakdown of soil aggregates which keeps the soil from sealing over and the water from running off.

Swiss War Plane Decision Causes International Flap

By Hugo Anson

BERN, Switzerland—Swiss defense officials found themselves in the midst of an extraordinary international squabble this week after finally deciding which war plane to recommend for modernization of their air force.

After more than three years of tests on several foreign-made fighter-bombers, the defense ministry last week recommended the U.S. A-7-G Corsair, favoring it over a high-powered version of France's best-selling Mirage.

Reaction from France has included criticism by both the French government and Marcel Dassault, whose company makes the Mirage. The French government told Switzerland's ambassador that Dassault's Mirage-Milan had not been correctly evaluated.

In response, Swiss Defense Minister Rudolfo Gnagel, acting on cabinet instructions, called in French Ambassador Bernard DuFourier this week and handed him a memorandum intended in refutation of that allegation. Informed sources here say the French have also been exerting pressure on Swiss Foreign Minister Pierre Graber, arguing that a European plane would better serve any future plans for integrated European security.

The Swiss have long been looking for a plane to replace a fleet of ageing British-designed Venoms. They also use British Hawker Hunters and about 50 Mirage IIIs, built in Switzerland under license.

The Mirage-Milan is a variant of the later-model

Mirage V.

Gnagel has now recommended to the cabinet that Switzerland buy 60 Corsairs, made by the Ling-Temco-Vought Company. The deal would be worth about $450 million.

Dassault, whose firm has sold well over 1,000 Mirages at home and round the world, took the occasion of a holiday in Switzerland to voice his criticism.

He complained to the Swiss news agency that his plane had not had fair evaluation tests, and he suggested the Swiss had not been good Europeans after France helped them negotiate a trade accord with the European Common Market.

Dassault also said 60 Mirage-Milans would cost the Swiss $78 million less than the same number of Corsairs. He said the only advantage of the Corsair was its inertial bombing and navigation system, and that his firm had offered to build such a system into the Mirage-Milan, but the Swiss has rejected the offer.

He praised his plane's performance in mock dog-fights staged in Switzerland, and declared its "infinitely superior" to its American rival.

The Swiss defense authorities immediately accused Dassault of making "erroneous and tendentious remarks."

The arms purchasing division had been told to find the best existing plane for Swiss requirements, and this was why the Dassault offer to build in an inertial guidance system had been refused, it said.

The ministry also disputed Dassault's comments on the price, saying his firm had not taken account of spare parts costs and other unforeseen expenditure, which had been judged to be lower with the Corsair, using the same criteria.

The government has said it will announce its final recommendation by the time parliament resumes on Sept. 18, which leaves it some room for maneuver in the intervening period.

But reliable sources here say the defense ministry is adamant that it should be "the Corsair or nothing."

Fine Arts Exhibit Opens At Library

Twenty-one paintings by Texas artists are presently on exhibit at the Cameron Public Library. The showing is the 61st Texas Fine Arts Association circuit exhibition jointly sponsored by TF AA and Texas Commission on the Arts and Humanities.

Friends of the Cameron Public Library, who sponsor the showing locally, have planned a formal reception for the exhibit from 3 to 5 p.m. Wednesday, October 13. The paintings will remain at the library until September 25.

The paintings were selected for the exhibit from award winning entries in shows across the state. This year the exhibit is a mixed media of oil, acrylic, watercolor and charcoal. Viewers will also note that circles are evident in many of the works.

In Florence Bregman's

piece a circle placed slightly off center has been broken open, setting up a series of matching shapes, and establishing the action of thrust of the painting.

Les Lawrence uses the circle as the starting point of his work and as an object - a winged Earth or Planet. Jeanette Welty Chelf's sun's rays form a structure of halos.

In Eugene Markowski's "White Cord With Blue" is another imposing circle as the central motif while four other circles converge at the center.

Other variations of dots and circles are evident in "Picnic-Picnic" by Mrs. N. Berry McClary and in Anna Claire Henderson's "Cymbidium".

The exhibit will be open to the public during regular library hours.

Plaids Parade Into Fall Fashions

By Chris Laws County Extension Agent

It's back to cool weather and football games with a plaid parade.

Giant-sized down to mini-sized plaid variations appear in all fabrics and colorations. They dominate the fashion scene.

Other directions include florals, flocking, tweeds and clips.

While plaids dominate, an Oriental influence is felt in refined prints often expressed in lacquer bright colors.

In addition, primary colors get a big play in fabrics, for fall with reds and greens emerging as favorites. On the other hand, the monotone trend makes the whole family of camel, beiges and browns important, with gray coming through as a major no-color neutral.

The boldness of plaid is mostly softened with fabrics which are lush, plush, brushed, napped, sueded, fuzzed and fleeced.

High on the list of these fabrics are brushed flannel, cotton, denim and brushed chino. Corduroy -- which lends itself to so many different treatments -- ranks as an important chapter in the plush touch story. Also, knits, high on the popularity chart, take a new plaid turn.

But watch for other entires. Winter seersucker and stretch wovens vie for attention. Also in the search for softness, blends are polyesterers combining with worsteds and wools to provide easy-care features and a touch of natural fibers.

In addition, polyester in spun/filament combinations give polyester performance with a special luxury feel formerly not found in 100 percent polyester.

Of fashion in general, with its special emphasis on plaids for fall, the election year fashion forecast favors an All-American look.

"The '72 version is defined by straight forward fabrics in styles with something for everyone and easy-care washability for all."

People are so busy here and there that they often fail to perceive the beauty and grandeur of Creation.

A storm at sea, a beautiful sunrise or a full moon riding in a clear sky are but commonplace aspects of the weather. Towering mountains, a great waterfall or a far-spread fertile valley are but features of the landscape.

Blessed is the man gifted with the vision and understanding to see the deeper meaning of Nature's matchless wonders.

For behind all the wonderful phenomena of earth and sea and sky is the pattern of a sublime plan which stirs the awe and challenges the imagination of man. There can be but one answer to the marvels and wonders of the universe—God! The Church brings man into spiritual relationship with his Creator.

Disease Invading Lawns

Two fungus diseases that attack St. Augustine lawns are currently causing some "headaches" for Texas homeowners.

The culprits are "grey leaf spot" and "fading-out" according to Dr. Walter Walla, plant pathologist for the Texas Agriculture Extension Service.

"Grey leaf spot causes irregular brown to gray spots on the leaf blades of St. Augustine grass," points out Walla. "The disease develops rapidly under warm, moist conditions and is usually noticed first in shady areas."

In areas of heavy disease development, Walla notes that the grass may have a burned or scorched appearance.

Grey leaf spot often invades newly sprigged or rapidly growing grass.

The Texas A&M University specialist explains that fading-out is a serious problem in many lawns where the grass is thin. The fungus disease develops rapidly, causing large dead areas in the turf.

"Thatch build-up is one of the major causes of fading-out," says Walla. "Such a build-up comes by allowing grass clippings and dead leaves to accumulate on the turf. This provides a favorable environment for the disease."

The plant pathologist encourages homeowners to follow good cultural practices so that lawn grasses will stay healthy and thereby resist diseases. These practices include mowing at the proper height, fertilizing according to a soil test, watering properly and avoiding thatch build-up by removing leaves and grass clippings.

THE INFORMED CONSUMER

BY CRAWFORD C. MARTIN
Attorney General of Texas

Assume that you are a debtor who owes money on delinquent accounts to several different creditors who have been pressing you for prompt payment.

There are a number of possible solutions to clearing your credit record and seeing that your creditors are satisfied as they should be.

However, the legal arrangement known as debt pooling or debt consolidation, about which my office gets frequent inquiries, should be used only under limited circumstances.

Debt pooling is defined by law as a contract between a debtor and any other person whereby the debtor deposits a specific sum of money with that person for distribution among the debtor's creditors.

Of course, the agreement usually includes the payment of a fee to the person doing the paying for his services rendered.

As a general rule, debt pooling is prohibited by Texas law. Those who unlawfully engage in this practice are guilty of a misdemeanor and subject to a fine of not less than $100 nor more than $500 for each violation.

But the law provides for numerous instances where debt consolidation is allowed.

For example, banks, savings and loan associations, trust companies, and credit unions doing business under federal and state law are allowed to contract with a debtor for debt pooling where it occurs in the normal course of business activity.

Also exempted from the prohibitions against debt pooling are retail merchants associations and non-profit trade associations created for the purpose of collecting debts and credit data, any attorney at law, any government agency or subdivision, any judicial officer acting under court order, and non-profit debt counseling agencies.

In essence, almost any organization except small loan companies and private individuals may engage in the practice of rendering debt pooling services.

Before entering into any contract or agreement to consolidate your debts or turn them over to another for payment, it is recommended that you consult your family attorney for advice as to whether the party contracted with may legally engage in such practice.

President Nixon Signs Rural Development Act

The Rural Development Act of 1972, introduced by Central Texas Congressman W. R. (Bob) Poage, has been signed into law by President Nixon.

The legislation authorizes nearly $500 million for programs designed to raise the standard of living of Americans on farms and in the non-metropolitan communities from coast to coast.

As Chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, Poage led the debate for passage of the bill in the House and headed the House conferees in their meetings with Senators to draft the final wording that went to the President for his signature.

"I think this is one of the most important measures to be enacted by the Congress in years", said Congressman Poage. "It strikes at the basic cause of migration to our over-crowded cities."

Retirement Calls For Planning

The prospects of retirement or death may never seem bright to farmers, but careful financial planning can insure that those later years will be much brighter, according to two Texas A&M University agricultural economists.

Dr. Peter J. Barry of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and Tom E. Prater of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service have pointed out in an Experiment Station study that relatively large numbers of farmers will be faced with retirement, estate transfers and disinvestment decisions in the next 10 to 15 years.

Many of these farmers may find that their estate has grown in value to a level where it is subject to rather large estate taxes but cannot produce the funds to pay them.

The investment per farm in land and buildings increased nearly five fold during the 1950-1970 period, the study revealed. This, coupled with rising land values, may mean that a farm is worth much more than expected.

Objectives may change as farmers approach retirement age, with expansion of income and income-generating capacity becoming less important. Assuring a stable source of retirement income with extra funds for emergencies and inflation protection or the continuance of his farm's production under different management becomes extremely important to some farmers. Others may be more concerned with lowering the cost of transferring their estate to their heirs.

A retiring farmer foregoes the income that his labor and management could earn, pointed out Barry and Prater. He must then rely on past savings, pensions or other retirement plans to provide income. These sources actually represent the invested benefits of income earned far in the past.

It should make available to Rural America many of the benefits that various federal programs long have provided those who reside in the larger cities of the country.

The new law applies to rural areas and communities of up to 10,000 in respect to most programs it authorizes. Industrial loans, however, could be made in communities of up to 50,000 population. It provides maximum cooperation between the Farmers Home Administration and private financial institutions by making use of guaranteed loan programs. It triples the grant authority ($300 million annually) for assistance to small communities under the Poage - Aiken Act (which heretofore has been $100 million) for use in construction of water and waste disposal projects, and provided $75 million annually for pollution abatement projects. Still another provision authorizes $50 million annually in assistance to public bodies for financing facilities to encourage industrial development.

The authority under the existing small watershed program and Resource Conservation Development program is expanded to include cost-sharing for water quality management projects and municipal and industrial water supply. Long term, 10-year contracts are authorized in Soil Conservation Districts under the REAP (old ACP) farm conservation program.

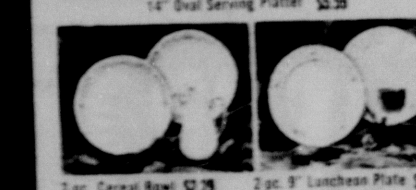

The Farmers Home Administration is given authority for the first time to make loans for small businesses and industrial loans for use in such programs as construction of job-creating industrial parks. Loans are authorized for erecting fire houses and community centers in rural areas.

Badgers To Meet Eagles In Opener

The first game of the season for the Buckholts Badgers will be with the Milano Eagles in Buckholts Friday at 8 p.m.

The Badgers scrimmaged with the Salado Eagles and won by one touchdown.

This year Coach Mike Shain thinks the team is lacking in depth, but is above average on desire and willingness to fight.

The Badgers claim to have a set of plays that will provide the opposing team with "a lot of confusion."

Milano, with a well balanced team, is also one of the best in the district.

The race for the district crown is open to Buckholts, Salado, Jarrell and Milano.

Festival Offers Fun For All

Loads of fun, great food, and fresh entertainment will highlight the Texas Folklife Festival, September 7-10, in San Antonio.

Approximately 1,000 participants from over 80 Texas cities will be combining their talents to create a delightful combination of the traditions of every race and nationality that has played a role in Texas history. And every type of Texan, from the Polka dancing to the corn shuckin', will be represented.

Visitors to the Festival, to be held on the grounds of the Institute of Texan Cultures in HemisFair Plaza, will have the opportunity to observe and take part in such diverse activities as Indian Tribal Dancing and even a Champion Crawfish Contest.

Nineteen festivals and fetes held throughout the state each year will come to San Antonio to depict their specialties with samples of their shows and crafts, according to Festival Manager O. T. Baker. And all of the foods, music, dancing, arts and crafts and zany games and contests will be combined in this unique celebration designed to show the rest of the nation how Texans have fun.

Festival goers will marvel at the fine delicacies to be offered at the celebration. There will be 14 native foods served by such ethnic groups as German, Italian, Mexican and Jewish.

Scotch bagpipers, Polka bands, Cajun bands and jazz groups will all be on hand to provide entertainment for the visitors and accompaniment for the many festive dancers.

Texas art will be a special feature of the fall Festival and will be available for purchase. There will also be "how-to-do-it" crafts demonstrations by skilled artisans and craftsmen. Mexican and Indian rug-making, jewelry and lapidary work, saddle and leather craft and even blacksmithing will be included and viewers of the crafts-making can buy the articles that are made.

The Festival will maintain an air of nostalgia to delight the hearts and eyes of all ages -- old time yarn tellers, games such as Indian Stickball, marbles and dominoes, and ropin', steam whistle blowing, cow calling and horse shoeing.

All this and much more -- that's the Texas Folklife Festival. Admission prices are $1 for adults and 50¢ for children under 12.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Bertram S. Brown, M.D., Director
National Institute of Mental Health

Studying Aggression
Despite all of medical science's advances, one of the areas in which we have far too great a chasm of ignorance is that of aggression.

In recent years, we have begun to study it and to accumulate many bits and pieces of information. Although not always of great importance in themselves, they are significant in that they advance, even if very slightly, our bases of scientific understanding—and make possible new studies that could not be carried on without these bases to take off from.

Such is the case in the field of information about, on the one hand, male sex hormones and, on the other, aggression.
We now know enough to be able to design a valid inquiry seeking to answer a number of important questions.
For example, do increased levels of sex hormones in males lead to more aggressive behavior and higher social rank?

Are hormones responsible for the aggressive surge to the top? Or do increased hormone levels reflect social rank and aggressive activity?
In a new study supported by the Health Services and Mental Health Administration's National Institute of Mental Health, scientists of Boston University and the Yerkes Regional Primate Center will probe into questions like these in a series of animal studies that they expect will bring information useful to human behavior studies as well as basic research.

The scientists will study the relationship between testosterone, the hormone responsible for male secondary sex characteristics (such as body build, beard, voice, etc.), and aggression, utilizing rhesus monkeys. Previous studies have suggested that there is a relationship, but no clear cause-and-effect tie has been proved.

Some scientists feel that there may be a reciprocal or two-way relationship between aggressive social behavior and testosterone secretion. It is possible, they say, that testosterone may be inhibited, at least in lower animals, by the stress of living in social groups. This diminished level of testosterone could, in turn, result in decreased aggressive behavior.

These and other theories will be tested in the new study; and the work will add useful information to our growing storehouse of knowledge about violent behavior and aggression.
